Nurture Bless Support Guide

The meaning behind the word

Txhawb

(pronounced ts-uh)

When a baby first opens his eyes to see the world, we "Txhawb" to Nurture his purity and fragility.

When a young newlywed couple spread their wings to begin their journey together, we "Txhawb" to bless the beginning of their life.

When a person experiences an illness we "Txhawb" to support and guide his spirit back to health.

And when a family loses a loved one we "Txhawb" to let them know we feel their loss.

The simple Hmong word "Txhawb" plays such an important role in the fabric of Hmong culture and society, it is the only word to define a publication that would thread together the Hmong of California by creating a resource that serves as a platform conducive for business and social networking.
